

Mr. Ken Knox, B.A.

Grade 8, St. Angela Merici Parish School

After graduation from Indiana University with a degree in English, Mr. Kenneth Knox began his teaching career in Indiana. He has been teaching sixth through twelfth grade students for thirty-eight years, thirty-three of them at St. Angela Merici.

His Language Arts classroom curriculum includes creative writing, expository writing, research papers, literature, poetry, drama, speech, vocabulary, and using correct grammar skills. He has taught a variety of theology classes as well, focusing on Christology, the New Testament, Confirmation, Creed, Morality, and Church History.

Besides sharing his English skills, he has been called upon as an eighth grade coordinator, junior high coordinator, language arts coordinator, spelling bee coordinator, computer coordinator, Confirmation coordinator, student newspaper advisor, Power of the Pen writing coach, Spring Fling acting coach, high school liaison, graduation coordinator, and assistant to the principal. In 1984 he received the Fairview Park Advancement of Education Award from the Kiwanis Club of Fairview Park and in 2006 was honored with the Diocesan Excellence in Education award.

Mr. Knox has been happily married for twenty-eight years to Barbara, also an elementary school teacher with over thirty-eight years of teaching experience. They have two children, a son who graduated from Fordham and is currently working as a Production Assistant for Good Morning America in New York City, and a daughter who is an honor student and athlete at John Carroll University.

Our mission is to promote a safe environment where students achieve the highest standards of academic excellence and to live our Roman Catholic faith in service to others.
